Over $400 Realized From Sale of Poppies

Sale of poppies in Redwood City by the two veterans' organizations last weekend netted a total of more than $400 for welfare of wounded veterans.

Sponsors of the sales reported that the 2500 Buddy poppies sold on the streets by members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' auxiliary brought in approximately $250. Sponsors of the American Legion auxiliary's sale said that the 1500 Memorial Poppies they sold brought approximately $155.

Special Events Headline San Mateo Horse Show This Week-End

Plans for the San Mateo Gymkhana Club's 11th annual Horse Show to be held this week-end, May 31, June 1 and 2, as announced today by officials of the affair included assurance that Mrs. Victor McLaglen, Mrs. Gerald Gray and Mrs. I. W. Hellman will display prize horses in various classes, while a mounted Army troop from Monterey Presidio will give a featured jumping demonstration. Veteran Ringmaster Abe Lefton will direct all events in the tanbark ring over the Gilmore Oil Company's sound system provided for the affair.

New Citizens Welcomed

San Mateo County's new citizens were warned Monday at a Burlingame meeting that America is faced with a real danger because her liberty and way of living was threatened.

The speaker was Robert R. Gross of Palo Alto, who a few months ago talked with many high officials in Washington.

Addressing the "San Mateo County's Welcome to New Voters" program, attended by a relatively small crowd of people, Gros said it is possible that the United States may in the future be isolated as the only democratic country in the world.

Gros declared that he thought the United States will never again fight other countries' wars. He urged Americans to clean house internally and to rededicate themselves to American ways and the constitution, which is a symbol of democracy. Furthermore, he said, young voters and new voters should look upon democracy as a way of life, not as politics.

Gros concluded by saying that American democracy must be preserved to enable American youth to look forward.

W. T. Van Voris, Burlingame High School principal and chairman of the program committee, explained that the purpose of the meeting was to help unite the citizens of the country against foreign entanglements. Last year a similar meeting was held for foreign-born newly affiliated with the United States, but this year the invitation was also extended to all persons who had recently become 21 years of age.

First speaker was Judge Allen J. Ward, who said: "Except in God's acre—America—war, murder and pillage are taking place in the outside world!" Burlingame High School band and chorus furnished music.

Ray Wins Dismissal Of Holdup Charges

Charges of robbery against Edward A. Ray, 26, were dismissed in superior court on Tuesday on motion of Dep. Dist. Atty. Louis B. Dematteis. Previously tried on the charge of being the "trigger man" in the $1000 daylight holdup in San Mateo Mar. 31, 1939, Ray escaped conviction when a jury was divided six to six.

E. A. Caldwell, former San Mateo cigar store clerk, is in San Quentin following his conviction of charges of being Ray's accomplice.

Judge McNutt dismissed the case after stating that he believed the jurors in the first case were honest in their convictions, the public officers had been unable to unearth new evidence, and he saw no reason for further expenditure of public funds.

Ray was being held in jail to answer two narcotics charges in San Francisco.

Doreen Gill Honored At Matrix Dinner

More than 30 staff members and guests attended the 11th Annual Sequoia Matrix Table, yearly dinner held by the Sequoia Times, Saturday evening in the girls' club room at the high school.

Toastmaster was Bud Hefner, co-sports editor during the past year. He introduced as speakers Principal A. C. Argo, Floyd F. McCue and Walter Peterson. Staff officials for the 1940-41 school year, including Editor Ken Gray, were called upon for brief talks.

Doreen Gill was awarded the McCue trophy, presented annually to the student considered the best all-around reporter on the Times staff. Miss Gill also won a prize for selling the greatest number of inches of advertising during the year, and was second to Gray in number of editorial inches.

Photographs Distributed

"It's ten times as easy to see the wonders of our Western National Parks as it was 20 years ago," says Frank Kittredge, San Francisco regional director, National Park Service, to Miss Bettie Enos of Standard Oil Co.'s Travel Information Service, who is showing him a portfolio of Standard's new color photographs of National Parks and Western Scenic Views. "Modern roads and better cars make it a simple matter to take in two or even three of these glorious scenic pageants each vacation with a pleasant stay in each." Nine million color reproductions of Western national parks and other famous scenes will be distributed to motorists by Standard service men during the next few months.

Normally, high winds that follow low ones bring clearing weather; while low winds that follow high cause unsettled conditions.

Members of congress draw their salaries whether they are present at each session or not, but formerly they were paid six dollars a day only if they were present.

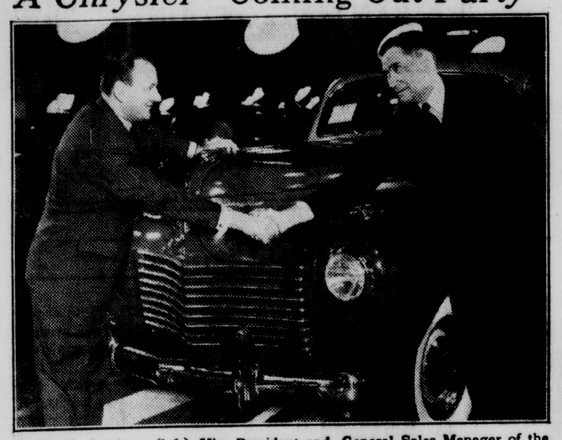
A Chrysler "Coming Out Party"



Charles L. Jacobson (left), Vice-President and General Sales Manager of the Chrysler Sales Division, Chrysler Corporation, and David A. Wallace, President, christen one of the new two-tone exteriors now offered by Chrysler at slight extra cost. Because of the fine lines of the Chrysler car, the two-tone combinations are particularly effective. Owners may choose from among four combinations namely, two tones of gray, of green, of blue and maroon and beige.

Chesterfield Airliner Is 'Flight Leader'

A great airliner named for Chesterfield Cigarettes is the "flight leader" in a nation-wide Chesterfield campaign for June, released this week to newspapers in all 48 states, Alaska and Hawaii by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

Among other spectacular advertisements in the new series are those featuring the cast of the New York musical show, "Higher and Higher"; the beauty queen of Northwestern University; "Doc" Wellman, champion fisherman, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. of motion picture fame. Every advertisement has excellent reader interest because of the individual personalities, and the way they help drive home the line "Do You Smoke the Cigarette that Satisfies."

The campaign is effectively supplemented by beautiful and original point-of-sale displays, billboard and magazine advertising, and by the coast-to-coast radio broadcasts of Fred Waring's "Pleasure Time" and Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade," on the country's largest networks.

Spreckels Wins Suit Over Hillsborough Home

Bank of America, through B. F. Raine, assignee, has lost its effort to foreclose on the Spreckels home in Hillsborough in partial satisfaction of a $900,000 judgment.

Rudolph Spreckels, former sugar magnate, sold the home to his wife, Eleanor, for $100,000 in 1930. The bank claimed he knew he was insolvent at the time and sold the home for less than its value.

Judge Maurice T. Dooling Jr., after a protracted trial, today decided in favor of Spreckels.

Nevada Physician To Practice Here

Dr. Bard S. Berry of Carson City. Nev., physician and surgeon, has announced he will take up practice in Redwood City, and plans to open offices in the Sequoia Building June 4.

Dr. Berry, a graduate of the University of Iowa Medical School, has been practicing for 17 years. His early training included residency and house surgeonship at the Iowa Lutheran Hospital, Des Moines.

After clearing up his affairs in the Nevada capital, Dr. Berry will bring his wife and 11-year-old son here to live. He is aerie physician for the Carson City Eagles, and is a member of the Masons, American Legion and the Episcopal Church.

Peninsula Speakers Contest Scheduled

The evening of Wednesday, June 5, will find the forces of four local speaking organizations facing each other in forensic foray, in which the weapons will be words and gestures. The battleground will be the stage of the McKinley School auditorium and the participants will be three men or women from each of the following organizations: Redwood City Toastmasters Club, Redwood City Toastmistress Club, San Carlos Adult Evening School Public Speaking Class, and the Sequoia Adult Evening School Public Speaking Class.

The judges will be Paul A. McCarthy of Redwood City, Mrs. John J. Garland of Menlo Park, and A. L. Mewhirter, San Carlos. Gold pins will be awarded to the best speaker in each of three classifications—prepared serious, prepared humorous, and impromptu.

The affair, to be known as the Peninsula Speakers Contest, is planned as an annual event, eventually including speaking organizations from the entire Peninsula area. It will be open to the public and admission is free.

The general committee in charge of arrangements consists of: Mrs. Lester B. West and Robert W. Dyer, representing the San Carlos Speaking Class; Mrs. John D. Peck and Ivan I. Schoemaker, Sequoia Speaking Class; Mrs. Homer J. Eastman, Toastmistress Club; and Dr. R. O. LaBerge and James A. Toso, Toastmasters Club.

Hundreds from all sections of the Peninsula, San Francisco and other parts of the state, were at Holy Cross Cemetery Thursday to place flowers on the graves of their departed relatives and friends. It was the largest crowd in the history of the cemetery. It is well that people remember their dead on Decoration Day, the one day in the year set aside for such purpose.

Dr. Percy E. Davidson will retire next month from active teaching at Stanford after 46 years' connection with the university. The professor and his family were the first residents of Robles Ave., Menlo Park. They occupied the home of Dr. A. E. Blake who was the first boy born in Menlo Park and the first mayor of the town. Mr. Davidson will retire to his beautiful home in Menlo Heights to spend his remaining years among his beloved flowers and wide-spreading oaks.

Julius Grimindl, a native of Hungary, aged 76, died at a Palo Alto hospital last Sunday and was buried from the Church of the Nativity Wednesday morning. The deceased had resided in Menlo Park for nearly 50 years, working as a gardener at the large estates in the neighborhood. He is survived by a sister in the old country. Mr. Grimindl accumulated a comfortable estate which he bequeathed to his sister.

Tuesday evening the Men's Club of St. Joseph's School gave a dinner at Bertrand's Oakwood Inn honoring the 1940 graduating class. About 125 pupils of the school participated.

Harry Doughty, the well-known meat market owner, is slowly recovering from his recent serious illness in a Palo Alto sanitarium. This will be pleasing to his many friends in Menlo Park where he has resided for many years.

The meeting of the city council was enlivened Thursday night by the boisterous speaking of E. M. Rankin, the board's nemesis. It was all about the preliminary passage of the street work ordinance. Rankin was so noisy that he had to be quieted by the police. Only routine business was done. The repeal of the ordinance compelling owners of dogs to vaccinate animals was passed by a unanimous vote.

As soon as you slip these 51-gauge all-silk hose on your legs you'll realize that you're not wearing an ordinary "sheer." You can see at a glance how different they are from the average hose—they're finer, more closely knit—and in a stocking that means added sheerness and sleeker fit. Take advantage of this reduced price and buy several pair for both daytime and evening wear. (Buying three or more pair in one color gives you from 30% to 40% added wear on each pair, you know!) So stock up now with stockings lovely enough for a movie star's trousseau.

Unique Inner-Door Invention Solves Food Storage Problems

The perplexing problem of finding space for everything that should go into a refrigerator, a chore which usually crowns a busy day with a distasteful "kitchen checker game," is solved with the new inner-door engineered by Philco. Scientific measurements disclose that the inner-door, appropriately named Conservador, gives the housewife twenty-six per cent more usable space for the food she needs in a hurry. In addition to conserving valuable space, the inner-door acts as a storm door to keep the proper refrigeration within the large main compartment, thereby reducing electrical consumption and expense.

WPA Roll Reduction Ordered by Chief

Reduction of WPA rolls by 1280 in six central coast counties, including San Mateo County, June 1 was ordered Tuesday by WPA Administrator William R. Lawson.

The Northern California quota for June is 43,000 compared to 50,500 this month. In this area the quota is reduced to 5940. Local WPA officials said they had received no direct orders for the reduction, but predicted that much of San Mateo County's share would be met by normal curtailments.

Twin Boys Delivered Without Medical Aid

SAN MATEO—Frank Rex, San Francisco dishwasher, Sunday was forced into the medical profession—and, according to Community Hospital aides at San Mateo, did a swell job.

Frank's wife, Elsie, gave birth to a baby son yesterday a month earlier than expected. The stork arrived too soon and unexpectedly for Papa Rex to summon medical aid. So he acted as pinch-hitter for the doctor in delivering the baby.

But, while Papa was patting himself on the back, and, incidentally, telephoning to ask for an ambulance to remove his wife and son to the hospital, the stork made a return trip—and delivered another son to the excited Rexes.

FURNISHINGS FOR MODERN HOMES

Suggested by the Redwood City Tribune Home Planning Bureau

Are You Dissatisfied With The Living Room's Appearance?

Furniture

Two Tests Suggested

If you have been growing dissatisfied with the appearance of your living room, if somehow it doesn't look quite right, why not give it two simple tests?

First pretend you are a stranger using it for the first time and ask yourself, "How comfortable is it?," for often the fault of a room which doesn't look right is lack of comfort. Perhaps you have unconsciously adjusted yourself to all the little inconveniences, but what about your guests? So if your living room, for some reason, doesn't please you, check up on a few points.

Be sure that every chair has within easy reach some sort of table for ash trays, books magazines and such. And if there are tables, are they too high, too low, or too small? And be sure that every chair for reading has good lighting close by.

And last but not least, how easy is it to form conversation groups when the social occasion demands. Does your living room give as much or almost as much comfort for a large party as it does for a small tea?

CONSIDERATION FOR GUEST

Why not watch your guests and try to put yourself in their places? We all know the chair hitcher, the man or the woman who in a quarter of an hour's conversation can move a chair a good two yards. Perhaps the fault is in the room arrangement, so try to have one or two light occasional chairs that can be drawn up easily to form conversation when you are having a party.

And for the second test, look at your living room critically to see if it has kept up with the times, if it expresses 1940.

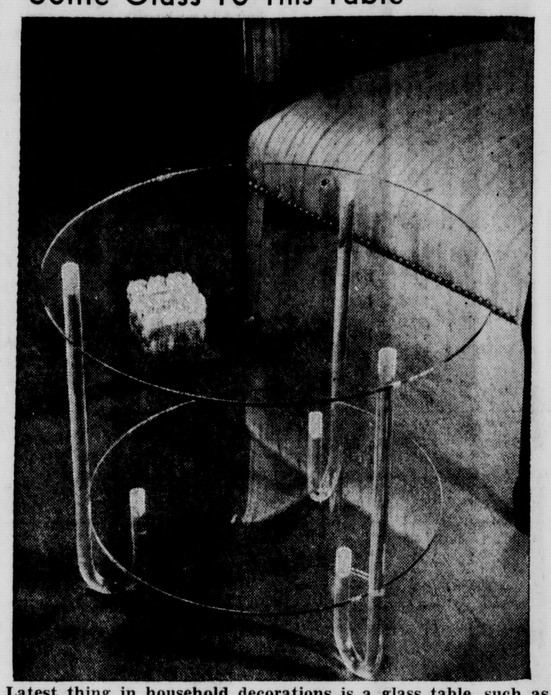
Of course it is not necessary to refurnish with each new trend, to follow every decorating able and charming. But one or two new things will revitalize one's home. So don't be afraid to be original and remember that your home should express your personality. The nearer it is like you, the less conscious your friends will be whether or not it is "in the pink" decoratively.

VERSATILE PIECE

We think the small coffee table shown here will pass both these tests. A versatile piece, it is small, light and easily moved. It will give a group of chairs a point of interest and you will find it is far more convenient for cigarettes and ash trays then a lamp table.

And furthermore it is new and exciting. For the little table is made of glass and that amazing new material, lucite, which resembles glass, but is almost indestructible and now quite inexpensive. Nothing could be newer, nothing could give more dash to your living room. And the beauty of it is that like much of today's modern, it has a knack of being quite as much at home against a traditional setting as a strictly contemporary background. Its light lines are particularly striking when paired with a graceful traditional chair like the wing back one above. And, too, nothing quite sets off the crystal-like sparkle as a rich dark finish.

Some Glass To This Table



Latest thing in household decorations is a glass table, such as this one, which marks a home as in step with furnishing styles.

'Cabin'

New Type Of Furniture

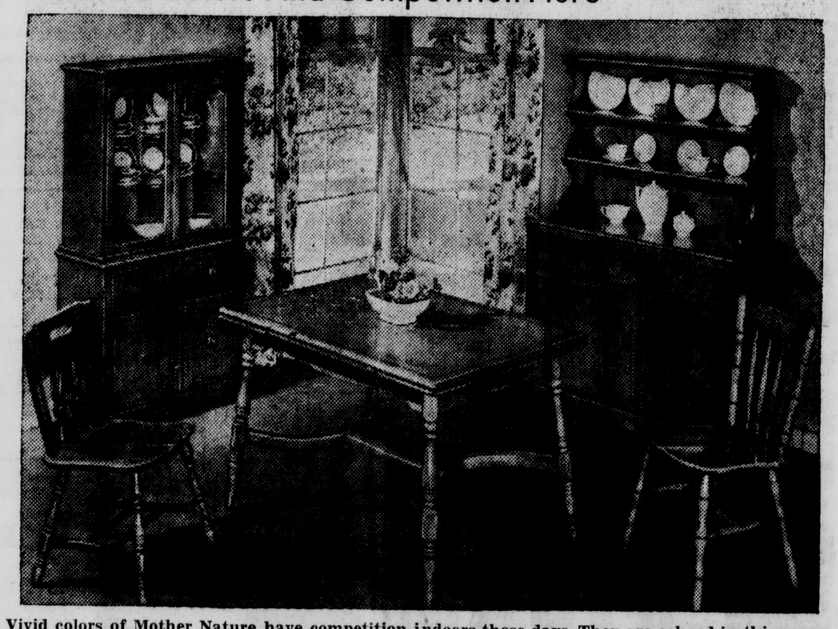
A native Californian, ardent enthusiast of outdoor living, has originated a brand new kind of furniture—his idea of what the beach or mountain cabin needs. Result: Cabin furniture makes its debut—dedicated to informal, outdoor California living.

Cabin furniture is rugged and hardy—reminiscent of early California days when utility was first consideration. It is built of Ponderosa pine, left unfinished to assume the personality its owners may elect. Its rustic character—wide plank construction, sawbuck silhouettes—is emphasized by outside cleats, rustic gate hinges, weather-worn edges, bent bar handles and drawer pulls.

Notable pieces in the Cabin line-up are six-foot tables and rope seat chairs and bar buffets—wonderful set-up for a barbecue. There are bookcases, too, and coffee tables and chests, particularly a treasure chest replete with metal bandings that captured our fancy. It would serve admirably as a window seat; will house anything from magazines to fishing tackle, from extra bedding to camp groceries.

Nor does the Cabin family limit itself to living and dining room equipment. There are beds, too, desk chests, even a vanity—rural as you please in outward appearance—but lift the lid and there tucked in the top is an excellent mirror and below three secions for toiletries et al.

Nature's Colors Find Competition Here



Vivid colors of Mother Nature have competition indoors these days. They are echoed in this grouping of Early American furniture and colorful dishes. The floral draperies form an appropriate frame for the outdoor scene viewed from the window.

The Bed

Have You Spring Fever? Try Getting New Springs

Many people who suffer from spring fever would be surprised to know that their trouble isn't with Spring, but with the bedspring.

Spring fever very likely may be just a seasonal way of saying "incomplete rest on an uncomfortable bed."

The bedsprings are the foundation of a comfortable bed. No bed can be completely satisfactory if the bedsprings are either worn out or the wrong kind for the mattress that's being used.

Being able to tell if the bedspring is right for the mattress requires more study. A modern mattress and spring are designed to be used together. The right bedspring should supply one-third of the bed's resilience when used with an innerspring mattress, and two-thirds with a solid mattress.

Since a mattress and bedspring lead such a closely co-operative life, it is always wise to purchase them together. However, if you have to buy a new bedspring to combine with a mattress already in use, there are certain precautions that you can take to insure getting the correct type.

If the mattress is an innerspring, the bedspring should be either a coil spring with a platform top or closed coils, or a firm boxspring. Either of these provides a sufficiently firm foundation to prevent the upholstery and small springs of the innerspring mattress from being forced down into the bedspring.

For Dressing Up Sun Room

Light, sturdy rattan furniture, as pictured here, is excellent to furnish a rumpus room or sun room. Thus furnished, a sun room will do double duty as a second living room.

7451 FHA-Insured Loans Made In County for Improvements

Modernization

For Tenants, Owners Both

San Mateo County, where modernization has become a major project in community development, has contributed substantially to California's record of 311,793 loans, amounting to $135,967,744.90, already insured under the Federal Housing Administration's property improvement credit plan.

This county has secured 7,451 loans, amounting to $3,317,002.89, insured by FHA for the improvement of existing buildings. Of that number, 988 loans, for a total of $1,107,207.19, were invested during the past year.

Loans under this phase of the Federal Housing program may be made through any approved local lending institution of the borrower's choice by property owners or tenants holding a lease extending at least six months beyond the term of the loan.

Improvements and repairs eligible for financing under this plan cover practically all types of improvements which become a permanent part of the property.

For instance, a new wing may be added to a home, a new roof may be installed, the house or building painted outside and in, worn floors repaired or entirely replaced, modern heating and ventilation systems installed, a new porch or extra room built, or the kitchen entirely modernized.

In the case of apartment house owners, or for the improvement of business buildings, it is possible to improve both exterior and interior. For example, a lobby might be brightened up, new lighting fixtures installed, walls and floors refinished, or an entirely new plumbing system installed.

Factories and other commercial plants may be enlarged or brought up to date so that efficiency is improved and working quarters made more modern.

Funds for financing such improvements, not to exceed $2500, may be secured from local FHA approved financial institutions, and the cost paid in one lump sum. Thus advantage is taken of any and all cash discounts. The borrower then repays the loan in equal monthly installments, out of future income, through the liberal terms of the FHA property improvement credit plan.

Pamphlet Explains New Low-Cost Plan

The opportunity of home ownership at a price the average family can afford to pay is emphasized to prospective home owners by the Federal Housing Administration in its latest booklet, "Your Family Can Own a Home Like This."

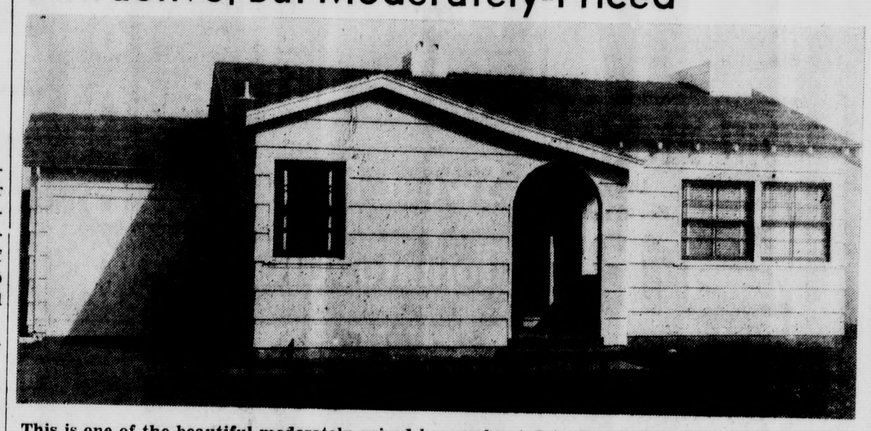
Answers to the key question "Can you afford home ownership?" will determine readily and quite definitely whether or not a family is in a position to attempt to build its own dwelling.

Economists say that a family can safely spend a fourth to a fifth of its monthly income on shelter, according to the pamplet.

Discussing the FHA plan of home ownership, the booklet points out that the low down payment may be as low as 10 per cent—or even 5 per cent in some cases. The loan is repaid in convenient monthly payments fitted to the family's income, and including taxes, insurance, and all other fixed charges.

The government does not lend the money for building and buying homes on the FHA plan. Insured loans are made by approved private lending institutions, which are always willing to give further information about the FHA plan to prospective home buyers.

Attractive, But Moderately-Priced



This is one of the beautiful moderately-priced houses located in Dumbarton Park at Old Middlefield Rd. and El Camino Real, in Redwood City.

Dumbarton Park

Super Values Are Offered

Beautiful and well-built homes of five rooms each, including:

Living room with fireplace.

Two large bedrooms, each with clothes closets.

Tiled bathroom with colored plumbing fixtures.

Kitchen with tiled drain boards and plenty of cupboard space.

Large dinette.

Laundry room with stationery tubs and automatic water heater.

Spacious garage.

All of these features in homes with expensive lath and plaster type of walls, hardwood floors, Venetian blinds, modern streamlined electric fixtures, electric door chimes, improvements in and paid for, are offered in Dumbarton Park, near the intersection of Old Middlefield Rd. and El Camino Real in Redwood City.

This is an ideal location for families with children for the tract is close to schools and churches, near to local trading centers, only a few minutes' drive from Redwood City and Palo Alto. Transportation is available by Greyhound bus, which runs both north and south each 30 minutes.

J. E. Sparr, the builder, states that all homes are FHA-approved and that no expense has been spared to make them the finest that could possibly be offered at $4000 on the FHA plan.

Building Contractors

Personal Touch, Interest In Work Held Important

By TEDDY LAUMAN
Contractor and Builder

Every person in any business or profession should be so sold on his particular business and should enjoy that business to the extent that he is inspired to put his best effort into it at all times.

There is much that is personal that goes into any activity and and this is decidedly true of the business of building.

A good builder requires considerable knowledge and experience and must have executive and mechanical ability and a good knowledge of the various crafts coupled with a yen for careful planning. Thorough planning, exact knowledge and everlasting vigilance form the keystone to successful building.

Ninety per cent of the failures in the building business are caused by a lack of knowledge, experience, ordinary forethought and an effort to get something for less than it is worth.

The difference in building a house and building a home is mostly in the special effort to give a little more and do a little better than expected, or required by the contract, and in special attention to little details and in anticipating the special needs of the owner and making preparations for the same. A good builder will devote less thought to what he hopes to make from a job and spend more thought on what he can put into a job.

The home should be carefully serviced from time to time after the owner is in, being sure that everything is functioning as planned.

Close attention to the above will make of every owner a special friend and potential salesman.

GOOD FOR YEARS

Nearly everyone who builds or buys a home expects to live in it for a number of years and there is probably no other way to build up an equity so painlessly. Nothing about a home will contribute more to pride of ownership and peace of mind than the feeling that it is well-planned and built and that its darkest corners can be safely shown to friends. If a home is built by a builder who is in a habit of building character into his work, this will be strongly reflected when selling or refinancing. It is certain that one will not have to take a lesser price because of faulty or poor construction or hidden defects that did not show up until the home was lived in for a while.

LOOK TO ABILITY

Select your architect and your builder as you would your doctor and look to your builder's ability to finance himself or he may have to take poorer material because of a long overdue account with the material dealer. If your builder dwells too much on how much he is going to make out of your job he is liable to shop around for the cheapest sub-contractors, thereby lowering quality.

You naturally want to get all you can for your dollar but don't overdo it. Select a builder of known capacity who can be relied upon and you will get more for your money, what you get will be right and your home will have greater loan and resale value.

AND ABOUT HIMSELF

This was to have been an article on my own building activities but I started wrong. The following synopsis will cover my part of it: : :

I have been building homes in the Redwood City district for 12 years; I apply the golden rule to all transactions, I have made a good friend and and salesman of everyone I have been privileged to serve. Nearly all of my business comes from or through these satisfied customers and friends and I keep pretty busy.

I get a tremendous amount of enjoyment, pleasure and satisfaction from my work and will have nothing whatever to do with any transaction that is not profitable or enjoyable to everyone that it concerns.

FHA IS PERMANENT

The National Housing Act is permanent legislation and the Federal Housing Administration a permanent governmental agency. Debentures isued against the housing administration's mutual mortgage-insurance fund are guaranteed by the United States Treasury.

FHA Mortgages

Neighborhood Important Factor In Risk Rating

The neighborhood itself is a vital factor in rating the risk on mortgages eligible for insurance by the Federal Housing Administration. Frederick M. Babcock, assistant administrator, lists the following seven major requirements for subdivisions:

(1) Convincing evidence of a healthy and active demand for homes of the type contemplated and at the prices asked; (2) suitable site; (3) easy access by means of transportation and adequate highways to schools, employment, and shopping centers; (4) installation of appropriate and sufficient utilities and street improvements; (5) compliance with plans and regulations of city, county, or regional plan in cases where such subdivisions fall within the jurisdiction of any of these; (6) appropriate deed restrictions; and (7) a sound financial setup.

"It is only by constantly developing areas which are ripe for use, by reorganizing subdivisions which suffer from planning and financial and legal encumbrances and by postponing or abandoning the building up of subdivisions which are premature or plainly uneconomic that a stable realty condition can be established to justify mortgage lending and the insurance of mortgages in any neighborhood," he said.

"The seven requirements referred to here are the minimum requirements which must be met. From this point on we must endeavor to secure as many of the desirable standards as possible.

These desirables are recommendations, not requirements. However, if some of them were notably lacking, approval would be withheld until the conditions were corrected. These include careful adapting of the subdivision layout to the topography and to natural features; best adjustment of the street plan and street width and grades to meet traffic needs; long blocks with the consequent elimination of unnecessary streets; a carefully studied lot plan with generous and well-shaped house sites; parks and playgrounds; and the establishment of community organizations of property owners.

"These minimum requirements and desirable standards are the elements that we believe must be present to insure the orderly growth of our cities and the development of stable and desirable neighborhoods. Recognition of the factors that create sound real estate values and setting them down as requirements was our first step. The second was the establishment of a procedure for applying them."

Bread, Butter Pickles Packed Immediately

Bread and Butter Pickles, the "crunchy" member of The Best Foods family, are fresh sliced cucumber pickles, packed as soon as they have come from the vine. Prepared after an old fashioned recipe, they have a "sour sweet" flavor that makes them irresistible. The unique feature of Bread and Butter Pickles is that they retain their crispness indefinitely. Serve them "as is" or as a garnish on meat or fish salads. For an interesting variation, try adding chopped Bread and Butter Pickles to any of the Best Foods dressings.
